

The background of the cover is a complex, abstract network visualization. It features a dense web of interconnected nodes and edges, rendered in shades of blue and green. The network structure is more prominent on the left side, where it forms a thick, textured band, and becomes more sparse and transparent towards the right. The overall effect is a sense of depth and complexity, typical of network science visualizations.

OXFORD

Networks

Second Edition

Mark
Newman